

To Whom It May Concern:

Eric Curtis is a Drama and Technology teacher at Simmons Middle School in Aurora, Illinois. I have known him for six years. He is a consummate professional. He has a tremendous work ethic. He tirelessly works on maintaining an up-to-date curriculum for both Drama and his Technology class. He is organized and dedicated to his students and his colleagues. He is always willing to help students and colleagues. Perhaps what helps Eric stand out the most is his creativity. He has developed his own Drama curriculum, sketch shows and performances from scratch. There was no drama course when Eric first arrived at Simmons Middle School. The play performances were second rate at best. His creativity, hard work, flexibility, and dedication to his profession, students, and colleagues have helped revive the creative direction of Simmons Middle School. Eric Curtis is my professional colleague and friend. I would highly recommend Eric to be a part of your school.
